

Becoming a Fellow

The Patient Revolution (TPR) is the heart of a global movement for care that turns away from the industrialization of healthcare and seeks to nurture environments in which careful and kind care can thrive.

Our community of Fellows is a cornerstone of our work. These remarkable individuals include patients, patient advocates, caregivers, clinicians, administrators, health system leaders, researchers, systems designers, educators, medical students, and policymakers.

As a community of practice, the Fellows program is designed to be a setting for discussion, collaboration, inspiration, and creation. Fellows contribute personal and professional insights and lived experiences to help shape TPR's strategic priorities and programs, and they inspire action and change to advance our mission and vision in their own communities. In turn, Fellows enjoy unique opportunities to meet and build relationships with like-minded thought leaders and care activists, and find inspiration and support for their own advocacy, caregiving, education, and transformation initiatives.

If you are drawn to TPR's language, to the hopefulness of our vision, and to the opportunity to work hand-in-hand with like-minded people, we invite you to explore The Patient Revolution Fellows' community.

I stay engaged with The Patient Revolution because the community is so enriching. There is a very clear vision of what we want to see happen. The ideas that are presented are radical and necessary and the organization is not afraid to push the envelope in its pursuit of change.

Identify as a Clinician

Identify as a Patient or Patient Advocate

TPR Fellows are Clinicians, Patients/Patient Advocates, Educators, Administrators, Caregivers, Medical Students, Project Managers, Consultants, and many come to the community with more than one role.

We must transform healthcare from an industrial activity into a deeply human one, capable of providing careful and kind care for all.
